Innovative Higher Education

Volume 18, Number 1, Fall 1993

Editor's Page 5
Ronald D. Simpson
The Conserving and Liberating Role of Curriculum

Five Years of Strategic Environmental Assessment Efforts at a Research University: A Case Study of an Organizational Innovation 7
James C. Hearn, Richard M. Clugston, and Richard B. Heydinger
This study examines the evolution of "environmental scanning" efforts at a large university

Overcoming Institutional Barriers to Broad-based Curricular Change 37
Donald Elliot, Maurice L. Hirsch, Jr., and Marsha Puro
This article delineates major institutional barriers to broad-based curricular change and describes the successful process of curricular reform at a regional state university

The Ph.D. Versus the Ed.D.: Time for a Decision 47
Russell T. Osguthorpe and Mei Jiuan Wong
This paper presents a national study of the U.S. institutions that offer the Ph.D. or Ed.D.

Improving the Process of Education: Total Quality Management for the College Classroom 65
James P. Gilbert, Kay L. Keck, and Ronald D. Simpson
This article proposes using a total quality management (TQM) approach to improve the effectiveness of classroom teaching

Being There: Social Service and Teacher Education at the University of Houston 87
Kip Téllez and Peter S. Hlebowitsh
This paper examines a project that helps teacher education students become familiar with diverse cultures

Innovative Higher Education

Volume 18, Number 2, Winter 1993

Editor's Page 97
Ronald D. Simpson
Outstanding Editorial Board Set for Coming Year

Education as an Investment in Our Future 99
Sven Groennings
Our prosperity depends upon our investment in education

Traditional and Nontraditional Student Attitudes Toward the Mixed Age College Classroom 109
Jean M. Lynch and Catherine Bishop-Clark
This study involved interviews with traditional and nontraditional students regarding their attitudes toward the mixed age college classroom

Toward a Palatable Research Paper Experience 123
Kathryn K. Rileigh
A five-stage technique for managing research paper assignments is described and student reactions presented

Validating Teaching Competencies for Graduate Teaching Assistants: A National Study Using the Delphi Method 133
Ronald D. Simpson and Kathleen S. Smith
A validation of teaching competencies which apply to the instructional role of graduate teaching assistants as a basis for planning administrative support

TA Training: From the TA's Point of View 147
Janet L. Jones
Suggestions for the improvement of teaching assistant training programs are provided after studying the opinions and experiences of program participants

Innovative Higher Education

Volume 18, Number 3, Spring 1994

Editor's Page 165
Peter Ling, Royal Melbourne Institute of Technology, Guest Editor
A Focus on Faculty Development

Faculty Development in the United States 167
Jerry G. Gaff and Ronald D. Simpson
This report gives an overview of faculty development in the United States during the past 30 years and suggests what remains to be done before this movement becomes fully institutionalized in American higher education

Current Challenges to Quality in Higher Education 177
Paul Ramsden
Research into the influence of teaching and assessment on the quality of the learning of university students is drawn on in presenting a response to current challenges to quality in higher education

The Ally Within: An Innovatory Approach to Networking and Staff Development 189
Philip Candy and Jill Borthwick
This paper reports on innovations in teaching in the university voted best in Australia in 1993

Quality and Change in Higher Education 205
Lewis Elton and Pat Cryer
This article presents a change theory analysis of the different funding strategies of two British Government Departments and their effects on universities

Administration for Innovation in Higher Education 221
Lorraine Ling and Peter Ling
This paper presents an approach to administration designed to enhance innovation in higher education and reports on a trial application

Innovative Higher Education

Volume 18, Number 4, Summer 1994

Editor's Page 239
Ronald D. Simpson
Do We Really Know What Constitutes Good Teaching?

Initiating Minorities into the Professoriate: One School's Model 243
John S. Gooden, Paul A. Leary, and Ronald B. Childress
This article describes a college's efforts to increase faculty diversity by recruiting minority doctoral students who are at the final stages of their programs

Nurturing Faculty Vitality by Matching Institutional Interventions with Career-Stage Needs 255
Patricia Kalivoda, Geraldine Rogers Sorrell, and Ronald D. Simpson
Results from a study of Lilly Teaching Fellows and Lilly Mentors supports the notion that one key to a successful instructional and faculty development program is to target activities to the academic career stage of the faculty member

Using the Workshop Approach in University Classes to Develop Student Metacognition 273
Daisy E. Arredondo and Terrance T. Rucinski
The results of a study conducted by two professors at two separate universities investigating student creativity and metacognition are presented

Strategies for Infusing Curricula with a Multicultural Perspective 289
David MacPhee, Kevin Ann Oltjenbruns, Janet J. Fritz, and Jill C. Kreutzer
Pedagogical strategies are described for infusing a multicultural perspective into courses from disparate disciplines in the human sciences